

BIO:

Raised in Southern California and rooted in Country music, Anna Vaus blends her West Coast cool with refreshing hooks and unmistakably relatable lyrics - simultaneously personal and universal. "Girl In A Bar" is the lead single from her sophomore EP co-produced with Luke Laird. "I'm guilty as charged when it comes to writing about where I come from," says the Poway, CA native. "It's made me who I am. Although I haven't turned all of those into songs, the ones I do are the truth." Vaus' deep connection with her home state combined with a passion for evolving country music made Nashville the perfect place for her roots to find wings.

HIGHLIGHTS:

- Chosen by Miranda Lambert as the first recipient of the Miranda Lambert Women Creators Fund.
- CMT's Next Women of Country Class of 2019
- Signed to Black River Publishing & CAA
- Video for "Day Job" is featured on CMT's 24/7 music channel, CMT Music.
- Vaus made her Grand Ole Opry debut in June 2019
- Performing at Pilgrimage Festival

FEATURED IN:

"Vaus, an alumna of CMT's Next Women of Country 2019, pairs with Grammy-winning writer/producer Luke Laird for this wistful mid-tempo tale of a time when everything was going fine with her beau... until it wasn't." - Billboard

"The deceptively melancholy track [Girl in a Bar] doesn't aim for country clever – instead, Vaus simply tells it like it is. In this case, that truth is an uncomfortable run-in with her ex." - Rolling Stone Country
